ABOUT

I am a recent bootcamp graduate of School of Code, underwent an intensive 16 weeks of full-stack web development training. Through my bootcamp journey, I have gained knowledge in both development and engineering aspects of full-stack development including using multiple coding languages and methodologies.

adaptable, hard-working and outgoing person with strong interpersonal and organisational skills. I am currently looking for a new challenge within a dynamic and impactful organisation where I can leverage my tech skills; to contribute to building a better society and create a positive impact through digital transformation.
